Brice-A-Brac

Mr. Editor: I hate politics worse than the itch or small pox; but, believe the time has come, when every one should look around. Let no one suppose this Conkling-Lamar business a passing shadow. Some years ago, a man named Brooks threwed Sumner, for insulting B's father-in-law, Butler, of South Carolina.
Considerable strutting and crowing was done by the "chivalry".
At last, Philadelphia contributed to the House a man named Millward.
Although a perfect gentleman in manner and instincts, he was an old fireman, and familiar with hitting from the shoulder. Mistaking his mild manner, the "cavaliers" took hold of him, and he waded in and had knocked down a half dozen before the Sergeant-at-Arms could reach him.
It then occurred to the game-cocks present that the halls of Congress were neither fish market, prize ring, nor duelling ground, and quiet was restored. But the stinging of harsh language was felt, and out of the Brooks-Sumner affair grew the mightiest contest the world has ever seen. Great armies out, stab or shoot each other for high five years, and the South was whipped, if ever a nation (or attempt at a nation) was whipped. It is all nonsense to talk about disparity of force.
This was equalized by the immense lines of communication the Northern armies had to keep up, and by the greater familiarity of the ground enjoyed by the South. If the South were such mighty fellows, why didn't they whip at Antietam and Gettysburg? But it isn't the men who did, and who will have to do the fighting who talk this way.
Turn to the lists of the Congress of 1860-1, and the secession Legislature, and see. Conkling was never in the army, and Lamar quit his men for political preferment; so did Vance, the hisser-on, the apostle of cheap whisky and sugar in his n. I had a brother, an old soldier (commencing in Ben. McCulloch's rangers and finishing in the Regular Army who, at the outset, wrote several newspaper articles stating the main fighting would be done in the Border States, and calling on the Border State men, North and South, to strangle the extremists.
He was only laughed at, but you all knew where the fighting was done.
Which of you ever expected a soldier in East Tennessee? That brother was killed in the war, but Sumner lived to a good old age, and Roger A. Pryor has a lucrative practice in New York city. Old Abe Lincoln, the purest man that ever sat in the Presidential chair, was assassinated, and that miserable fraud Jeff. Davis, who was jealous of Lee and hated Johnston, the best generals the South produced, is making a martyred ass of himself.
'Tis astonishing what some Southern men can see in this embodiment of selfishness to admire; a man who even when Secretary of War, was hated by the entire regular army, and who would, any day, brave heaven and subvert hell to accomplish his personal ends.

Farming on a Large Scale.

Lancaster Farmer.

The largest cultivated wheat farm on the globe is said to be the Grondin farm, not far from the town of Fargo, Dakota. It embraces some 40,000 acres, both Government and railway land, and lies close to the Red river. Divided into four parts, it has dwellings, granaries, machine-shops, elevators, stables for 2,000 horses, and room for storing 1,000, 000 bushels of grain. Besides the wheat farm there is a stock farm of 20,000 acres. In seeding time seventy to eighty men are employed, and during harvest 250 to 300 men.
Seeding begins about April 9, and continues through the month, and is done very systematically, the machines following one another around the field, some four rods apart. Cutting begins about August 4, and ends the fore part of September, succeeded by the threshing, with eight steam threshers.
After threshing, the stubble ground is plowed with great plows drawn by three horses, and cutting two furrows; and this goes on until the weather is cold enough to freeze, usually about November 1. There are many other large farms in the Territory and in the neighborhood, and they are tilled in much the same manner as the Grondin. The surface of the land generally is almost level and the soil rich and black.
The product of one field of 2,315 acres is 57,285 bushels—elevator weight—some twenty-five bushels to the acre. The average yield of the Dakota wheat is from twenty to twenty-five bushels per acre, and the concurrent testimony is that it is unequaled as a wheat region in the world.

Big Head.

National Live-Stock Journal, Chicago.

The disease in horses known by this name is a constitutional affection, supposed to arise from a scrofulous tendency. It being essentially due to malnutrition, such animals should be kept on liberal and nutritious food. Nothing is better than liberty on a rich pasture. The application of a blister is sometimes resorted to; but local applications often prove a disappointment, because, as stated, the disease is of a constitutional nature.
Food that is hard to masticate should not be given. Tonic remedies may be employed with benefit, such as the following dose, morning and evening, for some time: Half a drachm each of phosphate of iron and nux vomica, and half an ounce each of powdered gentian and ginger. A small handful of ground willow bark may be mixed among bruised oats and corn every evening.

Wicked for Clergymen.

I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article is made up of common and valuable remedies known to all, and that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it.
I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them." Rev. Washington, D. C.

Antebellum Constitutions

OF THE STATES OF THE UNITED STATES, WITH A CRITICAL ESSAY ON
"RECENT CHANGES,"
BY
WILMOT L. WARREN.

From Hon. Wm. M. Evans, Secretary of State, DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
JUNE 17, 1873.

(COPY.)
I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 11th inst., and of the copy of "The Constitution of the United States of America," which you have had the kindness to send me. The book appears to be a valuable and useful one, and I am very glad to possess it.

From the New York Tribune.
A useful collection of public documents is published by A. S. Barnes & Co. in "The Constitution of the United States of America," prior to the commencement of the Civil War. The volume also includes the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation, and an Essay on Recent Changes in American State Constitutions, by Wm. L. Warren. The comparative views which it presents of the constitutions of the different States render it a convenient book of reference, and an almost indispensable addition to the political library.

520 pages, 8vo. Cloth, $7.50; Law Sheep, $4.00.
Sent post paid on receipt of price, by the publishers,
